REPORT TO THE SUPERIOR JURY

OF THE JURY OF AWARDS FOR THE DIVISION OF FINE ARTS, EXCEPT FOR GROUP IV (139), ARCHITECTURE. PRESENTED TO THE SUPERIOR JURY, FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1901.

JULY 25, 1901.

To the Superintendent of Awards:

The Jury of Awards for the Division of Fine Arts has to report that the Exhibition of Fine Arts in the present Exposition is the most complete and representative exhibition of American art ever got together. Almost all of the works collected were solicited for the exhibition by the Director of Fine Arts, and no unsolicited work was accepted without the approval of an expert professional jury, so that the mere presence of a work of art in this collection is of itself a certificate of merit. Under these circumstances it has seemed necessary to the jury to make a very large number of recommendations of Awards in order to do even partial justice to the work exhibited.

In view of the extraordinary and altogether exceptional merit of the work in sculpture exhibited by Augustus Saint Gaudens, the jury unanimously and earnestly recommends that the award of a special diploma and Medal of Honor, above and apart from all other awards, be created solely for his work*.

The Jury of Awards for Group III begs to call special attention to the great merit of American wood-engraving, as shown in this exhibition. The general average of merit is so high that it is difficult to do full justice to every worthy exhibitor. As the art seems now to be dying, from want of support, it seems hardly probable that so fine an exhibition will ever be seen again.

In concluding its report, the Jury of Awards for the Division of Fine Arts desires to mark its appreciation of the intelligence, tact and tireless energy of the Director of Fine Arts, Mr. William A. Coffin, to whose personal qualities are so largely due the brilliant success of this unique exhibition of American art. The jury desires also to record its approval of the artistic laying out of the grounds of the Exposition and the general effect of the buildings, and to com-

THE EXHIBITION OF FINE ARTS.

BY WILLIAM A. COFFIN, DIRECTOR OF FINE ARTS.

The plans for the Exhibition of Fine Arts at the Pan-American Exposition, announced in the first circulars sent out from the Division of Fine Arts in November, 1900, have been closely followed. The exhibition has been made up almost altogether by direct invitation. The artists of the United States, both those at home and those resident abroad, were asked to submit lists of their works executed since 1876 which they especially wished to have represent them in the exhibition, and selections were made from these lists. The response from all quarters in time became so general and so enthusiastic that it has been possible to realize in the exhibition the plans, which, when first announced, seemed very difficult of accomplishment. Some of the works in the exhibition have been secured from the artists themselves, while others have been obtained from amateurs and from public institutions.

The Director of Fine Arts, as soon as it was determined in October last that the scope of the exhibition should include only works of American artists, felt that, while his work should begin at home and the first thing to be done was to secure the co-operation of the eminent artists who lived in the United States, it was quite as important to secure a full representation of the best work of our artists dwelling in Europe. After the circulars to artists and collectors had been issued, and a large number of our best men had promised their support, he went abroad in January to obtain contributions from the artists in Paris and other parts of the continent and in Great Britain. The result of this necessarily hurried trip has been to secure work from most of the prominent American painters and sculptors in Europe, whose names have long been familiar in the art world, and also an interesting collection of works by younger men who have finished their studies in the European art centres but have not yet returned to take up permanent residence at home. From the first of March up to the time when the actual installation of the exhibition in the Art Building began, the work of the Director and his assistants was entirely devoted to completing the representation of the artists at home.

The United States exhibitors number over 650, and the total of works shown in the four groups is nearly 1,700. There are about 1,000 pictures, oil or water color, pastel and miniatures. In sculpture there are over 225 works. The etchings, engravings, black and white drawings, etc., are about 325 in number. Over 100 photographs of buildings erected by leading architects and other exhibits compose the architectural section. A gallery in the Fine Arts Building contains the Canadian exhibition of fine arts, which was made up by a committee of the Royal Canadian Academy, with Mr. Robert Harris, President of the Academy, as chairman. In addition to these there are in the sculpture court half a dozen pieces of sculpture by Canadian artists. In the International Section are works by artists of South American birth and from such North American provinces as Newfoundland.

The group system in the hanging of pictures is a feature of this exhibition, and it is owing in part to following this system of placing a number of works by the same artist in a group on the walls that the co-operation of a number of eminent artists was secured who are unwilling to lend to exhibitions where only one or two examples of their work may be shown, or where, if they have a larger number, these works may be widely scattered. The exhibition of sculpture should prove to be a revelation to those who have not closely followed the wonderful progress made in recent years by American sculptors. It includes a number of important works which have been acclaimed in the annual exhibitions in New York and other cities, many pieces which have been medalled at the Paris Universal Expositions and in the annual Salons, as well as a number of works which have not before been exhibited in the United States or in Europe. Among the pictures are over 100 canvases which have been awarded prizes at the Society of American Artists, the National Academy of Design, the American Water Color Society and other annual exhibitions in New York, at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Art Club of Philadelphia, the Art Institute of Chicago, and other important exhibitions in the United States, and in various foreign exhibitions. There are pictures also by such eminent artists as George Inness, Homer Martin and A. H. Wyant, among those who have passed away, but whose work lends glory to the contemporary American school.

It is almost needless to say that this exhibition, so complete, so comprehensive and of such uniformly high quality, could not have been made without the public spirited co-operation of many well-known amateurs and art institutions. To all of them, and to the artists themselves, who took time and pains to aid the administration in securing the best possible representation of their work, acknowledgment and thanks are hereby gratefully recorded.
